CHIEF JUDGE'S REPORT - GINA DAL SANTO

The DIAA and RA&HS has a fine tradition of quality products, innovation and excellence while ensuring the competition is in line with industry developments.

Recovering from the uncertainties that COVID presented over the last few years, I have to say that everything went smoothly for the 2023 competition. It is a wonderful feeling to see business as usual.

This year we had 358 entries, an increase from last year by nearly 100 entries. We saw a slight increase in most categories, main increase was in the frozen dairy section and in cheese. The increase in white mould entries is encouraging, I would like to see this area grow each year. The flavoured cheese section is again on the rise, very interesting to see such a vast array of flavours. Following from last year the washed rind and blue lines are holding steady in numbers, I would like to see an increase in this area in the future. Our fresh classes proved to be of high quality. It is such a pleasure to taste fresh product such as milk and cream with such vibrancy and freshness.

With the RA&HS and DIAA working together I am hopeful we can continue to increase our numbers for 2024.

The competition did see some exciting products and Australia and South Australia should be proud of products that are in the retail space.

The judging panels are made up of the best fine-tuned palates from various industries with a wide variety of expertise. The judging team proudly reflects the diversity and depth of the dairy industry.

This year we introduced Kim Sparks from Udder Delights and Marcelle Barnett from Say Cheese Wholesale as Associate Judges. Kim and Marcelle have been part of the stewarding team and now progress to Associate Judge. We have a sound judging team which I would like to increase from two panels to three panels in the next three years, especially as I am anticipating an increase in entries. It is important to grow the expertise in this space. Moving from steward to associate judge is a natural progression, then being mentored by the current judges to progress the associates to full judge.

Sean Kay our Chief Steward did an excellent job and kept the judging running on time, smoothly and all the stewards worked well under his guidance.

It is through the system of awarding Medals and Championships that the industry, buyers, and consumers can easily recognise top performers and make production and purchasing decisions. For the exhibitors, these awards provide recognition of product quality and consistency which can be used as leverage into new markets and more importantly the judges' feedback facilitates a vehicle for improvement and further development and growth.

In conclusion I would like to thank the organisers of the RA&HS Dairy Products Committee, especially Amanda Ford and Matt Cooper. I feel privileged to lead the team of respected judges, and more importantly thanking the behind-the-scenes team, the judges cannot do their job without the Stewards. I look forward to the announcement of the winners at the dinner.
